

COMPASSION AND FOCUS HELPS EARN AWARD

When people contact a personal injury lawyer, they are often going through one of most difficult times in their life. They not only need a law firm with experience to take charge, they also need compassion and empathy.

For the first time, the category of personal injury lawyers has been added to the Consumer Choice award portfolio and the Yanko & Popovic Law Firm is the recipient. Determined through independent research, consumers voted the Calgary Law Firm as their first choice.

"That's the true test of appreciation and acknowledgment — from the people," says David Yanko, owner and partner of Yanko & Popovic Law Firm.

The philosophy of the personal injury lawyer and his team is always to treat people with respect.

Over his many years of practice, Yanko has handled more than 10,000 personal injury cases on behalf of clients with injuries ranging from whiplash to quadriplegia and traumatic brain injury. The serious and complex personal injury cases include car accidents, motorcycle accidents, slip and falls and wrongful death cases.

He has seen the havoc such situations have brought into people's lives and uses his experience and empathy to offer peace of mind. He and his team of lawyers build true relationships with their clients, getting to know many as friends.

"Most cases are from a year-and-a-half to four years and our objective is not just to rush a case through. We will invest the amount of time it needs," says Yanko.

While he used to practise criminal law, for the past 15 years his team has practised exclusively in the area of personal injury law, allowing them to be more efficient by specializing in one specific area.

For those wondering if their situation warrants a personal injury case, it's easy to find out.

"With just a simple phone call, we can quickly tell them whether it is worthwhile and what the hurdles might be," explains Yanko.
